SATURDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 4, 1865.

Revolutions and their Effects.

Revolutions never go backward. Turning over the pages of history to read the fact, we see that feudal institutions; tyrannical forms of Government, despotisms that had been rooted to earth by the habit of centuries; chains that to all appearances were riveted by an immemorial usage that seemed to be de perpetual slavery; laws that had grown old without affording to the toiling millions the protection they deserved, all these in times past melted away before the breath of public opinion, and have ceased to be, as the masses, achieving power through enlightenment have learned to dare, and daring have become more free.

England set the example of great revolutions. Gradually the people demanded more freedom, and, word by word, wrung from the reluctant lips of Kings the great charter under which they have been comparatively free. The revolutions that followed the attempt of a fickle-minded monarch to restrain those rights, caused a struggle that made her Princes exiles, and since that time has secured for them a government based more nearly upon the free and equal rights of all. But there were a few that desired a truer freedom still, and sought it across the sea. The band that landed from the May Flower and, amid December's storms, sang their thanksgiving hymn upon Plymouth Rock, are memorable, because, unlike many adventurers who had preceded them across the waves to the new continent, they in many instances left rich homes behind them and came hither to find a spot where they and their children could be free.

"They have left unstained what there they found—Freedom to worship God."

American revolution resulted in the freedom of American soil, and to-day the children of those who settled in the Atlantic Colonies two centuries ago, inherit a privilege of freedom only disturbed by the present abortive attempt to destroy the bond of union that leaves them free.

Amid all the bloodshed and carnage of her revolutions and her wars, France has become more great and powerful. It would seem that the disgraceful scenes that have blotted the pages of her history, are not indicative of progress, but she progresses nevertheless. Old ideas have immensurably exploded there, even though the people are not evidently prepared and educated for a freedom based upon entire self-government. With them revolution has been riot and carnage, not sober thought and prudent action; but France can never descend to the old regime, when absolutism held an imperial scepter and blocked up popular will. Russia avoids revolutions upon her proper soil, however it may break out within unhappy Poland; for it has ever been the policy of her Czars to anticipate the progress that her people might demand, by the cession of great popular privileges.

The revolution of to-day attempted upon our American soil, is not merely the outbreak of a section; it is the death throe of slavery, which slavery had become a crime; it is the trial as by fire of the theory of republican institutions. The expression of that theory in its vast practical application to a nation stretching from ocean to ocean—reaching from regions of frozen winter to where rivers pour northern floods into a tropic sea—has brought the trial hour upon us when the question is to be or not to be one nation longer; to open our territories to slavery or retain them free.

France, England and other European powers recognizing that slavery is a crime against humanity and repugnant to Christian civilization, long since have declared that their dominions shall contain no slaves. So the people of these United States have decided by the voice of public opinion expressed at the ballot box that the nation will not be responsible for slavery by admitting it into the Territories which, belonging to the nation at large, shall be preserved for freedom. "Whom the gods would destroy, they first make mad;" against this decision slavery rebelled. Whatever may be its alleviating circumstances in many cases, slavery is barbarous in its origin and inhuman in its practice, and true to its instinct as such, it has lifted its impious hand to smite the nation down.

True to the traditions of the past, that "revolutions never go backward," the one at present attempted is resulting in the triumph of right. The nation rising with a power a free people only can wield—gathering a million soldiers to its ranks from the broad loyal belt that spans the continent, with a majesty superior to all vindictive hate, and a might that is becoming irresistible—grapples with slavery; and while republican institutions are preserved unsullied and unharmed, the criminal that attempted all this wrong is crushed to earth and will soon be numbered with the felon dead.

Mills for Owyhee.—Marion Moore, Esq., of Owyhee, lately returned from California, informs us that he is taking up considerable new machinery for the Morning Star Mills, near Silver City, on Jordan Creek, to improve its capacity for working silver. He says many capitalists there have a trip to Owyhee in prospect in the spring, and several new mills are going thither from San Francisco. Evidently these mines will be greatly developed the coming summer and fall.

San Francisco Items.—The spicy San Francisco correspondent of the Sacramento Bee says that "Petroleum will soon be a speculator's watchword" in California, and already much interest is being taken in "ile wells." Donohue, Booth & Co. are about commencing the building of two first class locomotives for the San Jose Railroad, which is a new step in San Francisco manufacture.

Senatorial Roll.—The following names have been placed on the list of candidates for United States Senator, from California, next winter, by their friends: Gov. Low, Hon. A. A. Sargent, Hon. T. G. Phelps, Hon. F. M. Pixley, Hon. J. McM. Shafter, Hon. J. B. Southard, J. W. Williams, Fred. Billings and H. S. Brown. There is still room for a few more names.

A Picayune Operator.—One Christian F. Tedmire has been arrested in San Francisco for counterfeiting dimes and half dimes. He made his spurious coins out of lead, which led to his discovery.

Letter from San Francisco.

San Francisco, January 26, 1865.

Editor Oregonian:

Matters and things in this State being in a very dull and unsatisfactory condition, I propose to take a trip back to the Webfoot nation in a few weeks, and having a little leisure on my hands I have concluded to drop you an occasional letter from the Gate City.

As I, before remarked, the State has suffered through its length and breadth, both in its mining and agricultural affairs, during the last two years, on account of the drouth, and also owing to the collapse in mining stocks, which occurred last year, and which ruined many and affected almost everyone, either directly or indirectly. [illegible] that relates to [illegible] has [illegible] from its [illegible]. Thousands of laborers [illegible] and indifferent [illegible] are now [illegible] around, many of whom will [illegible] way north this spring. [illegible] interest here which is [illegible] has suffered much, many of them have increased their capacity for [illegible] and bill in large quantities [illegible] purpose, and they now find that [illegible] was amply sufficient for present [illegible] last.

EXPECTED RUSH TO THE NORTHERN MINES [illegible] SPRING.

I find quite a general belief existing here that California is about to experience [illegible] depopulating stampede, some estimating that [illegible] to 30,000 people will go north this spring, mostly to Idaho. This is attributable to the truly flattering shipments of gold [illegible] the past season, and to the dull state of affairs in Nevada and California.

THE CAMANCHE.

The Camanche has finally been completed and has gone to Mare Island under steam. She moves off like a "thing of [illegible]," say a mud turtle, for instance; but as she was not intended for speed she disappointed no one. She [illegible] well as was expected.

STEAMERS, SAIL VESSELS, &C.

The Pacific leaves on the 30th for Portland and Victoria, Sierra Nevada is up for [illegible] Jonathan for the Southern Coast, bark Jane A. Merritt is about ready to leave with a fair freight, including two hundred tons for Fort Vancouver, consisting of blankets, clothing, &c., for Uncle Sam's boys. The H. W. Alley is now up for freight. The bark Industry arrived safely the other day after a good run from the Columbia river, bringing a cargo of produce for the market. Flour has been varying from $10 to $12 per bbl., and I notice Eastern flour quoted at the same price in Oregon. This seems strange but such appears to be the fact.

NEW TUG FOR COLUMBIA RIVER AND BAR.

The owners of the line of packets now running in the Oregon trade have the frame of a new tug on the stocks here which is intended to tow vessels outside of the bar and [illegible] through to Portland. This is an improvement on the present state of affairs and it is strange that you have got along without it as long as you have.

I notice an extract in our papers taken from the Oregonian, stating that a new steamer has been built here for the Oregon trade, evidently referring to the steamer Del Norte, built here for the Crescent City trade. If she is intended for the Oregon trade, it is contrary to the general understanding of the matter here, and certainly not as an opposition boat, as she was built and owned by the same parties who own the Sierra Nevada.

STEAMER ACTIVE.

I have heard that the steamer Active, a regular old coal burner, but a good, staunch boat, is likely to take the place of the propeller Brother Wright, in the Victoria trade. This, however, may depend on a contemplated sale of the propeller to the Russo-American Telegraph Company, negotiations to that end being in progress.

AN OREGONIAN IN THE NAVY.

Lieut. R. H. Lamson, who is, I believe, from Yamhill county, is recommended for promotion by Com. Porter, for dangerous services performed in piloting in and out the party that exploded the powder boat under the walls of Fort Fisher, in the first attack on that fort. Bully for Lamson!

THE RUSSO-AMERICAN TELEGRAPH COMPANY.

This company are really in earnest, apparently, as would appear by the arrival here of Col. Charles S. Bulkley, Engineer-in-chief of the expedition, accompanied by a Corps of Assistants. They have three barks on the way out, bound to Victoria with the material for constructing the line from New Westminster via Behrings Straits, to the Amoor river. There they expect to find a connection with the Russian line now being extended in that direction from St. Petersburg. This line, as I understand it, is a Western Extension of an entirely new telegraph line across the plains, which line is to connect with this at New Westminster, B. C. Thus we see a nice little race going on for the completion of telegraph lines to connect the old-world and the new—one the Atlantic Cable Company, and the other the Russo-American Telegraph Company.

THINGS THEATRICAL.

The Keans are closing a successful engagement at Maguire's and leave on the next steamer for England via Aspinwall, not going to New York at all; they are to be succeeded by Matilda Heron, who has just arrived from New York. [illegible] Minstrels draw good houses at the Academy of Music. Then we have pantomime and acrobatic feats at the Metropolitan, the Zoyara Hippodrome at the Mechanic's Pavilion, the Learned Pig (no allusion intended to any of the editorial fraternity in Oregon) and Melodeons, &c. The Sunday laws being in force, the Melodeons and Theatres give concert of sacred music on Sunday evenings.

PERSONAL.

I notice as booked at the hotels some old acquaintances, most of whom I have met. Among them, I remember now, R. R. Thompson, Mark King, Brooks Trevett (lately married), E. J. De Hart, P. F. Bradford, Ed. Northrup, Van Schuyver, Dr. Hawthorne, Knapp, Pierson, and Smith, of Colville, (lately married,) and others, no doubt, I do not know or fail to remember. R. S.

Our Fifth Volume.—We issue this morning the first number of the Fifth Volume of the Daily Morning Oregonian. It is with pleasure that we hail each anniversary, as every year brings greater prosperity to our city, and therefore increase of patronage to all its interests, not excepting ourself. In unison with the policy always pursued by him, the proprietor in the next issue intends to enlarge the columns of the Daily, and the public is assured that so far as the increase of business will justify it and enable it to be done, will the improvement in size and character of the paper keep—as it ever has—in advance of the growth of our city and our State. Intending to deserve in the future, to as full a degree as in the past, the confidence and support of the public wherever the Daily Oregonian can reach it, we commence the duties of another year.

One of our exchanges says that "Hon. Schuyler Colfax, Speaker of the House of Representatives, was seized in Philadelphia last week on a warrant issued by some of the best known citizens of that city, and bound over to appear at an elegant banquet, which they had meanwhile gotten up in his honor. We are told that the fare on the occasion was much better than is commonly served to the victims of arbitrary arrests." Schuyler was a printer, and is one of the rising men of the nation, deserving of respect for the ability displayed in his present arduous position where he commands the favorable regard of all. Our "local" says he was Vice President of the Convention that first nominated him for Congress in Indiana, where he knew him well.

Resigned.—We are told by good authority that Surveyor General Pengra has tendered his resignation, to take effect on the 4th of March next, and the same authority has it positively enough that Elisha Applegate is to be his successor.

A floating paragraph states that two women recently died near Rochelle, France, who were born on the same day; gave birth to their first child (daughter) on the same day; became widows on the same day, and almost at the same hour, and completed the series by dying the same day and buried on the same day.

THE COLUMBIA MILLS.—Mr. Dean Blanchard, proprietor of the Rainier steam sawmills, is at present in this city, procuring additional machinery for his engines, or having them repaired. We have observed that since Mr. Blanchard took the interest he at present has in Rainier, the town is on the "up grade" again, and with very promising encouragement. The mill there is at present employed night and day, cutting lumber to supply an order from the Sandwich Islands. The mills of the Columbia, are all, in fact, doing a good business, with a prospect of a fine reward for the year. The one at Westport, owned by Captain West, has greatly increased its facilities for work, by the introduction of the patent turbine water wheel. Those at Oak Point are actively employed in getting out a merchantable quality for export, and besides the Young's river mill, all these places will be visited for their products by ships, the coming season. When the demand for agricultural products diminish, or we have forwarded what we had for export, there is a demand for lumber, on outward cargoes of vessels that have come to us freighted with merchandise, and if we are correctly informed, double the amount that can be obtained with the present number and capacity of mills, would find a market.

A PRAISEWORTHY ACT.—The people of the North Pacific coast, whose mail usually comes overland, have reason to be grateful to our old friend, A. G. Richardson, Esq., Superintendent of the California Stage Company, who, before the Pacific left San Francisco, caused all the mail matter for offices north of Jacksonville, to be put on board, so that we have our letter and newspaper mail at least ten days in advance of its contract delivery. The arrangement is an admirable one, and we trust it may be continued during the winter months. By it our Postmaster is also authorized to send a letter mail by the returning steamer, thereby saving several days to those who desire to use the privilege. The California Steam Navigation Company, owning the steamer Pacific, have also shown a very liberal disposition in consenting to take the mails at reasonable rates. This spirit manifested by the contractors and by our steamers, is certainly worthy of commendation, and shows that there is a ready desire to do what will accommodate and gratify our citizens.

PORTLAND LIBRARY.—A day or two since we alluded to the arrival of a large lot of new books belonging to the Library Association of this city. The greater part of this new invoice is composed of elegant editions of the best authors, English and American. The books are now arranged on the shelves of the Library Rooms, and are ready for the use of the members of the Association, or for the inspection of any who may wish to make application for membership. The Library already possesses a sufficient variety of books, upon almost all subjects, to satisfy the taste of all who like good literature. A sufficient number of well selected books have already been ordered to make this the largest as well as the most valuable public Library in the State. These orders are now filled and the books will be received in a very few weeks. More will be sent for from time to time. It is the purpose of the Association to procure all new works of value as fast as published, and also gradually to fill up the lists until the Library contains all the choicest and most useful literature of our language. The Library is also constantly receiving the latest and best newspapers and periodicals, both of this country and Europe. If it be properly sustained, it will be of great usefulness among us. The members ought to exert themselves in procuring others to join. The Rooms are open at all times from from early morning until half past ten P. M.

GOOD-BYE, AARON, AND JOY GO WITH YOU; AND BRING YOURSELF BACK AGAIN BEFORE WE FORGET YOU.—This is supposed to be said to our versatile little friend, Mr. Aaron Bushwiler, who takes his departure on the steamer Pacific for the "front." There is a rumor that he is going into the Christian Commission, but of that we cannot speak positively. We hope our delegation in Congress will take him up to see Mr. Lincoln, and enjoy the contrast between long and short humanity. There are few men about this town, who will be missed more among the printing and newspaper fraternity, than Bushwiler. We don't want Mr. Lincoln to appoint him a Brigadier-General, for then we might never see him more; but if the President has any snug place in these parts, we hope he may hand it down to Aaron. He could not bestow a little $1,000 office on a more deserving fellow. Good-bye, "Bush," but be sure and come back and say how goes to us.

THE PACIFIC INDEX.—The first number of a quarto, with eight pages, bearing the above title, and devoted to the mineral resources, commerce, manufactures, etc., of the Pacific States, has reached us from the publication office in New York. We do not wholly approve of this system of publishing Pacific journals so remote from the subject, but in case the Index does all it agrees, for the States and Territories of this coast, it will be worth the subscription price. Julius Silversmith appears as its Editor. He was formerly connected with the Mining and Scientific Press of San Francisco, but we can commend him for nothing done on its pages to advance the mining interests of the region about Oregon. A paper that ignores this section of the Pacific can certainly be no fair Index of the mineral resources of the States which it pretends to give correct and reliable information about.

MORE COUNTERFEIT COIN.—The San Francisco Bulletin of Jan. 24th says: Officer Chappelle took from a Chinese boy a counterfeit $10 gold piece, which is one of the best imitations that have yet been about here. The coin is milled and stamped in the most perfect manner, but can be detected by its thickness, light weight and lack of the ring of the true metal. It is much better calculated to deceive than the "queer" which was taken from Farrell. Whether there are many of them in circulation is not known, but considering the frequency with which such counterfeits are turning up, people cannot be too careful in examining every piece of gold coin offered them. The same words will apply to this community.

FROM THE DALLES.—The O. S. N. Company's steamer Wilson G. Hunt left this city for the Cascades yesterday morning, and returned at seven o'clock last evening bringing Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, and passengers from the Dalles, having been met by the steamer Idaho from that place. It is believed that unless the weather changes very much for the better, in the upper country, the ice in the Columbia above Celilo, will prevent navigation for two weeks.

THEATRE.—The great burlesque character of Po-ca-hon-tas was assumed by Mrs. Irwin last evening at Willamette Theatre, in a repetition of the burlesque play of Pocahontas. The beautiful domestic drama of the "Lost Legacy," was also performed. "Colleen Bawn" a sensation drama will be produced this evening. The best characters are to be assumed by Mr. and Mrs. Irwin, and Mr. Waldron. Mrs. Getzler will appear as Betsey, in the play of "Betsey Baker." We trust a larger audience will greet the performers, than that of last evening.

ODD FELLOW'S BALL.—The members of Samaritan Lodge, I. O. of O. F., in this city, propose a grand ball in honor of the anniversary of the Independent Order, on the evening of the 19th of April. A meeting of the Rebeka Degree is called, for the evening of February 6th, at which all Brothers and Daughters, in good standing with the Order, are requested to attend.

EXAMINATION.—Messrs. Wm. M. Armstrong and Samuel Miller on yesterday, passed a highly creditable examination at the Portland Commercial Academy, and are recommended by the Principal, T. Patterson, Esq., to the business community as competent to conduct books on scientific principles.

NO DISPATCHES.—Dr. Plummer, the obliging operator of the Telegraph office in this city, informs us that the wire was down between Oregon City and Salem, last evening, which leaves us without the regular dispatches for this edition of the DAILY OREGONIAN.

CALIFORNIA VOLUNTEERS.—Three companies of troops are expected by the next steamer from California. One company will be left at Cape Disappointment, and the remaining companies will be stationed at Fort Vancouver until the quarters are ready to receive them at Ft. Stevens.

RECORDER'S COURT.—The Recorder disposed of the following cases of drunk and disorderly [illegible] yesterday: James [illegible], [illegible] $5 and costs; Charles [illegible], $[illegible] and costs; [illegible] $[illegible] and [illegible]; R. STOP THAN COUGHING!
Some of you can't, and we pity you. You have tried every remedy but the one destined, by its intrinsic merit, to supersede all similar preparations. It is not surprising you should hesitate to try something else after the many experiments you have made of trashy compounds foisted on the public as a certain cure; but

WHAT KILLED HIM!

A Greenback Case!

Jacob Mayer

Making less than two-fifths of the real amount said Mayer was to pay. He had secured the building at very advantageous rates, and even were he now to comply with his contract, and pay in COIN, would be getting the best bargain in the city. I make this statement to show the public what kind of a man he must be to take such undue advantage of the times to convert a few dollars to himself by LEGAL SWINDLING. Letter from Comus

Eugene, Jan. 28, 1865.

Editor Oregonian: I was [illegible] in my last communication with the vexed question of taxes, a subject of [illegible] entirely neglected, making [illegible] another communication and [illegible].

The [illegible] have recently had a meeting of stockholders and [illegible] to largely increase the stock [illegible] and [illegible] of the road [illegible] to the additional stock [illegible] steps have been taken to [illegible] which the company is [illegible] the [illegible] legislation of this State [illegible]. The route of the road from Eugene City to the southeast corner of the State is [illegible] the Willamette Valley [illegible] the Owyhee [illegible] mining regions and perhaps become the [illegible] as the great northern [illegible] of the Pacific Railroad [illegible] south[illegible] corner of the State. The subject of this road taken in connection with the projected railroad in this valley [illegible] Eugene City is of the utmost importance. The [illegible] other feasible routes from the [illegible] coast, by the way of Benton county and [illegible] Bay as well as Elk Creek [illegible] the Umpqua [illegible] eastward towards the [illegible] regions would seem to have [illegible] the attention of the community that [illegible]. Besides it is the route of [illegible] to compete with the [illegible] California [illegible] pending thousands of dollars [illegible] Red Bluffs, Honey Lake, &c. [illegible] specially interested [illegible] rest of [illegible] the tax question. By the way [illegible] that lately [illegible] in your columns in reference to Lane county [illegible] friends and patrons [illegible] the strongest argument that [illegible] can be made, of that side of the [illegible]. The excitement which [illegible] gradually abating. The [illegible] having been postponed to the 16th prox. [illegible] that our county judge [illegible] the tender as suggested in [illegible] under [illegible] on which the county intends to rely and stand [illegible] at least so the officials say. The [illegible] inconsistency between the position [illegible] this year, for which you compliment them so highly, and last year [illegible] by some [illegible] personal interest, but if it were possible to suspect such a thing of the men which those of us [illegible] know is not, it is not reasonable [illegible] the Legislature made provision for paying [illegible] greenbacks at current value, all our salaried officers are secure, as they should be, of [illegible] "Slim Jim of de book" would say. A truce to taxes.

It is said that our county having raised its full quota of infantry, the volunteers are now under marching orders as soon as enough men shall come in from Douglas county to make a company. Captain Rigdon is canvassing that county for recruits assisted by Messrs. Chadwick and Watson.

The Attempt to Burn New York.—Additional reason for believing that the recent attempt to burn New York city was the work of rebel emissaries, is found in the fact that a well known secesh hotel which was the headquarters of George N. Saunders and the principal rebel refugees of the South and their sympathizing friends in the North, was passed over by the incendiaries. The number of rebel refugees in the city of New York is thought to be not less than twelve or fourteen thousand, and General Dix has issued an order not only requiring such persons to register their names at the military headquarters, but requesting hotel keepers to send to the same headquarters the names of all persons from the insurgent States taking lodgings with them immediately upon the arrival of such persons. Of the mode of operation of the incendiaries, and their plans, the New York Herald says:

The plan of firing the hotels suggests the theory that some one well versed in chemistry must have engaged in it. In all the hotels the materials seem to have been turpentine and phosphorus. The phosphorus was in solution, placed in vials of six or eight ounces capacity. These vials were sealed with plaster of Paris to prevent the air from coming in contact with their contents. It is unnecessary to explain that, at ordinary temperatures, when exposed, phosphorus undergoes combustion. These bottles were found in the rooms of hotels, generally on the upper floors, unsealed, and the beds were saturated with turpentine, which some people suppose contained phosphorus in solution; but which is probably not the case, the intention being that the beds and clothes should readily catch the flame created by the ignition of the phosphorus. When we contemplate the completeness of all these preparations, it seems truly wonderful how they should have proved so unsuccessful in every instance. In all the rooms black leather valises were found, containing bottles of phosphorus and turpentine. The carpet on the floors, sheeting, curtains, beds, towels and all other available articles were spattered with the inflammable material. At the Fifth Avenue Hotel a set of [illegible] soaked in turpentine was discovered. These were intended undoubtedly to explode and scatter the flame in every direction.

The movements of the incendiaries seem to have been arranged very uniformly. At each of the hotels the supposed incendiaries appeared in the character of travelers desiring rooms for a few days. They carried small, black leather valises, signed fictitious names on the hotel books, and carried their own baggage to their rooms. In this way at least twelve of our large hotels were invaded by the incendiaries and exposed to all the dangers of a terrible conflagration.

The original plan of the marauders was to have simultaneously fired the hotels at the lower and upper parts of the city, and while the Fire Department and the police had their attention distracted to these remote portions of the city, to fire the hotels and other public buildings in the more central points. The next step would have been to have fired the shipping, beginning with the hay barges, which they had the [illegible] to fired and pushed up alongside the ships and steamers and thus destroy a vast amount of property. During the enactment of these scenes, three of the more desperate of the gang were to have [illegible] to the task of destroying the ironclads now in the harbor. To this end they had provided themselves with numerous appliances among which was a large quantity of Greek fire. As nearly as possible, these steps were to be taken together, or at least so close upon each other as to render detection by the police almost an impossibility.

In carrying out this plan it was not thought prudent to trust the affair in the hands of Southern men who had been long enough in this city to get a [illegible] of [illegible] were made direct from [illegible] and Canada, of men sworn to [illegible] the dreadful work. The detectives became aware that a new class of men were arriving from the South and the provinces, but could not get any hints as to their designs. So long as ten days ago they were aware that some plot was afoot, but could not succeed in arriving at it. They learned, however, that the time fixed upon for the performance of a certain piece of work was about the 1st of December.

It will be seen by this time the movement was a premature one, and that the [illegible] the work had not altogether arrived. The reason of this was that the parties feared the whole matter would be discovered and that the entire design would be frustrated, hence the [illegible] manner in which the affair was carried out.

Thus far four of the principal parties concerned have been arrested, and [illegible] the means that had been [illegible] the work as had not yet been expended. The money was found, and [illegible] the Treasurer of the organization, who is now under arrest. The work is still going on, and by the time this paragraph is read it is probable that a majority of the parties concerned will be in custody.

The United States Mint in Philadelphia has coined within six months eighteen millions of the new copper cents. The [illegible] report of that institution states that five [illegible] hundred and ten thousand cents, and three million [illegible] hundred and forty-five thousand two-cent pieces were coined last month. Where do they go?

A Submarine Vessel.—A correspondent who has been down in the submarine vessel recently invented and manufactured in this city by S. S. Merriam, and just [illegible] the Government, near New York [illegible] the [illegible] experiment [illegible] the vessel from the top [illegible] was closed [illegible] When everything was ready, Mr. Merriam [illegible] the compressed air [illegible] the descent [illegible] the sensation [illegible] The vessel [illegible] half down to the bottom, and raised the door [illegible] the bottom of the [illegible], but the air inside of course prevented the water from coming in, except enough to wet the soles of our feet. [illegible] the opportunity to dive out and [illegible] on the surface of the water [illegible] of the spectators on the bank. He then [illegible] returned and entered the vessel from the bottom, when the door was closed, and [illegible] the air [illegible] came in, and we were on the bed of the river, 20 odd feet under water, this distance requiring an additional pressure to resist the water [illegible]. We [illegible] stand on the bottom of the river and not [illegible] feet, and at that distance under water [illegible] the light [illegible] glass windows [illegible] also heard distinctly [illegible] the rest of the world, only a few [illegible] were necessary; the air rushed out of the bottom and the boat was quickly [illegible] the surface of the water. We moved with a propeller easily under as well as upon the water, and in all respects the vessel worked so completely that its success is undoubted.—Spring[illegible]

Where [illegible] the "[illegible] difficulty" of the [illegible] has been finally disposed of. A South Carolina correspondent of the London Times tells a gaping world the precious secret. In case, says this astute scribe, the Confederates are driven from both Virginia and Georgia, and in their last effort, either conquered or dispersed in South or North Carolina, "there is still the magnificent domain of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, and Missouri, more extensive than the whole Austrian monarchy and the kingdoms of Italy and Greece combined, and likewise almost free from Federal invasion, and full of resources, to which the Confederate Government is fully determined to repair should, what is quite impossible, its forces be overwhelmed east of the Mississippi."

The New York World has at last arrived at the conclusion that "the war ought to be fought out if England or France were our opponents." The "erring sister" doctrine, as well as "Southern brethren" dodge seems to have died out. Even Copperheads are beginning to learn that it is no more pleasant to have one's house burnt, his vessel sunk, his friend murdered or a bullet put through his own head by a "Southern brother" than by a stranger, alien or any other man.

At the late election in Saginaw county, Michigan, the Democratic candidate for the Legislature in the First District, by a series of blunders in printing the tickets, did not obtain a vote, though his party carried the district by one hundred majority. So much for carelessness in small things.

California Markets.

We have received no later Bulletin than that of January 21th, which has the following in relation to the domestic produce market of San Francisco:

"The stock of breadstuffs now remaining in this State is thought to be light for the season, and yet it is more difficult to-day to sell [illegible] of wheat at anything over [illegible] than it was to obtain [illegible] ten days ago. True, it was difficult to account for the sudden rise [illegible] but the advance [illegible] was the decline? What secret influences were at work upon the public mind to cause these ups and downs in the market? It is not our province to predict the future of the market; still, it is well for us to look to the sources whence we are to receive needed supplies from now until harvest.

"Oregon and New York are both sending flour and grain, but, at best, these supplies will be comparatively light. Chile, then, is to furnish the supply. But whether she will be able to the extent of our wants, is somewhat problematical. True, there are [illegible] five vessels on the way to this port from Valparaiso with flour, and by the next mail we will probably get a response to the high prices ruling here in November, [illegible] perhaps further shipments of flour and grain. But the subsequent mail from California carried returns of the first cargo sale of flour made here equivalent to [illegible]. Besides, they have since received further accounts of sale of both flour and grain; and whether the returns and prospects sent forward were such as to [illegible] supplies, is unknown [illegible]."

The [illegible]'s sale from Oregon, consisting of a large quantity of flour and wheat, was sold before the arrival, or [illegible] withheld. 4,200 [illegible] sold [illegible] $2 55 ₩ box. Oregon [illegible] at $3 00 [illegible]. Butter [illegible] California roll. The supply of Eggs [illegible] large [illegible] lower [illegible]

The [illegible] something the retailers have [illegible] the business that has been transacted. The stock of dried apples, of desirable quality, [illegible] has been and exceedingly light, and prices tend upward.
